

Les Izmoore Bio

Les Izmoore is actually Jim Horsman. Pronounce the stage name phonetically to get the gist. Jim certainly subscribes to the “less is more” style. With his ample repertoire as a toolbox, Les/Jim focuses his attention on making connections with his audience.

After 30 years and over 2000 gigs as a drummer for several bands in central New York, Jim shifted to his current solo show to keyboard/guitarist/singer/entertainer. With oodles of songs at his disposal, and an engaging style, Jim can provide entertainment for most any occasion.

Although Les spent his formative musical years in central New York, he moved to southern Florida for five years and worked the country club and tiki bar market. From his Florida experience, Les has developed an easy groove that works for most any setting.

Les has full production to suit most any venue, including an ample sound system and lighting package.
